UPCOMING SERMON SERIES STARTING EASTER 2017

Through Good Friday, we'll be in the Lenten worship series called "SEEING THE UNSEEN CHRIST: How His Presence Transforms Life." Starting on Easter morning, we'll be kicking off a new spring series simply entitled: "PLAN B." Have you lived long enough yet to realize you're not actually in control of life? It seems that no matter what situation we find ourselves in, many times we end up with a 'Plan B.' Following are our sermon titles and dates for Easter forward:

April 16 (Easter) – "No Running Allowed"

April 23 – "Who's in Control?"

April 30 – "Watch Out for the Whiplash!"

May 7 – "God Knows..."

May 21 – "Me, Too!"

May 28 – "The Cross"

You'll notice that Sunday, May 14, is missing in the schedule. That's because it's Mother's Day and this year Pastor Rom will be preaching a special message called "You Don't Always Have Forever..." based on Proverbs 23:25. Basically, through the month of May, we'll be on the PLAN B series. Speaking of that, do you think that our PLAN B's are really God's PLAN A's? Join us as we wrestle with this question and many more...

“JESUS’ COMMAND: TO OBEY OR NOT TO OBEY?”

As soon as Judas left the room, Jesus said, “The time has come for the Son of Man to enter into his glory, and God will be glorified because of him. ³² And since God receives glory because of the Son, he will soon give glory to the Son. ³³ Dear children, I will be with you only a little longer. And as I told the Jewish leaders, you will search for me, but you can’t come where I am going. ³⁴ So now I am giving you a new commandment: Love each other. Just as I have loved you, you should love each other. ³⁵ Your love for one another will prove to the world that you are my disciples.” - John 13:31-35 (NLT)

Dear members & friends of Trinity UMC,

The month of April also brings us to Easter 2017—the end of the season of Lent. And, folks, if I had to boil the meaning of Easter down to one word, that word would be ... LOVE. It was the love of God that was at the heart of all that took place that first Holy Week and then into Easter. Only love could sacrifice one’s own. Only love could send their very best to those who didn’t deserve it. Only love could offer us a life—eternally—that would be better than we could even imagine!

Not to mix metaphors (or holidays), but I absolutely adore the Christmas hymn called ‘Love Came Down at Christmas’. The final verse of that song (you’ve got the tune going through your head now, don’t you?) is especially pertinent to the topic we’re dealing with here. Let me remind you how that last verse goes:

Love shall be our token; love be yours and love be mine;
Love to God and all [people], love for plea and gift and sign.

It strikes me that this Christmas hymn—especially this final verse—has everything to do with our scripture for this month, listed above. In this scripture, we hear Jesus speaking to his disciples—those who were left. It’s the first Maundy or Holy Thursday. Jesus has dined with his disciples. Judas has just left the room to ‘do what he had to do’. And Friday’s coming, so Jesus gave those followers of his one last thing that he expected of them. He addresses them as ‘Dear children’ (or ‘dear little children’)—a very intimate greeting indeed. He lets them know that his end is near. So, because of that, he give them a new commandment: Love each other.

I think it’s interesting, in verse 34, Jesus doesn’t just give the disciples a ‘tip’ or a ‘suggestion’ for when he’s gone. He’s basically saying, ‘This is what I expect of you after I’m gone.’ And he knew (just like in any other relationship) that some days we wouldn’t feel like loving one another. So Jesus gave us a command; he commanded us to behave in this way, if indeed we are followers of his! Why? Because ... this is our witness; this is the way we represent Jesus and his Church. And Jesus wants it no other way. He told us, ‘Just as I have loved you, you should love each other.’ He gave us a personal example—gave his life for us (and it doesn’t get much more personal than that!).

Folks, LOVE is what Easter is really all about. And, as followers of Christ first and foremost, LOVE is what we’re going to be all about, too. Here at TRINITY UMC, we’re going to love God, and we’re going to love one another. That’s what TRINITY’s going to be all about this Easter ... and forever. Won’t you join me?

Loving as Jesus’ loved together, Pastor Rom

CHURCH MEMBER IN NEED OF ENCOURAGEMENT

I received an email a short time back from the daughter of one of our parishioners here at Trinity UMC. It seems that her parents are both going through some adjustments as they get older, so this is partly an update on the health of one of those parents. It is also an encouragement to you to be an encouragement to them at this time. Peggy Klein shares the following:

Your prayers for guidance will be appreciated for our family, as we embark upon the journey of life with Alzheimer's disease. In mid-November, Mom—Jane Klein—courageously expressed, to family, concerns of intermittent memory loss and a desire to pursue medical evaluation for this, after her knee replacement surgery scheduled for early December.

As reported to you in December, the knee replacement surgery was successful. After multiple tests for the memory concerns, Mom's medical providers diagnosed middle-stage Alzheimer's and vascular dementia. With this diagnosis, it is recommended that Mom live where assistance is available to her 24/7. So, she will continue to reside at Hillview Healthcare Center in La Crosse, where she had knee rehabilitation, and where Dad (Gordon) has been a resident for the past few years for assistance with physical limitations due to scoliosis and Parkinson's disease.

Lomira and Trinity Church will always be home! Contact and news from home is appreciated. If you wish to be in touch, outside of prayer, Mom, Jane, and Dad, Gordon, may be reached at:

Gordon/Jane Klein
Hillview Healthcare Center
3501 Park Lane Drive
La Crosse, WI 54601

Thank You and God Bless,
Peggy Klein

Folks, I know the Kleins would love to hear from you. Please pray about this and send off a card or letter to them as soon as God nudges, would you? Thanks so much for your care & concern of the Trinity family—wherever they're at... Pastor Rom

Encourage Someone Else With These Tips

Here are 10 starter ideas so that you can begin encouraging others right away.

1. Validate what someone has said or done. Validation is easy. A simple thumbs up "like" on a Facebook post is validating to others.
2. Smile. Your smile conveys warmth and acceptance. When we accept others we communicate that we think they are okay. That simple unspoken acceptance is encouraging.
3. Offer a listening ear. One of the greatest ways we can encourage others is by simply listening to what's on their mind or what's in their heart.
4. Offer a compliment or a word of praise. Be sure it's not superficial or a small talk nicety. Make it authentic and specific.
5. Notice that someone has made a difference. Connect the dots between what they did and what difference it made. By doing so, you will be adding purpose and meaning that is encouraging.
6. Appreciate what others have done. Express your gratitude, and don't assume others know it. You can't say "thank you" too often.
7. Give others the latitude to try new things. Part of encouraging others means boosting their confidence. By trusting others with new endeavors, you are demonstrating your confidence and building theirs. That's powerful encouragement!
8. Show an interest in what others are doing. Be curious and step outside your own comfort zone into someone else's. It is tremendously encouraging to know that others genuinely are interested in what you were doing.
9. Set and communicate your expectations. Be clear about what you expect. Let others surprise you as they arise to your expectations.
10. Encourage others by acknowledging the efforts they have made. Don't wait around for the end result. Encourage those efforts along the way if you'd like to see more of them.

Why is it a good idea to encourage others? The first and foremost reason to encourage others: it's the way it will make you feel, too.

That's right. When you encourage others, you will get an extra measure of courage that uplifts your spirit, too. Encouragement is contagious, and you can be the source.

"Be an encourager. The world has plenty of critics already."

Join the Caring Ministry Team at TUMC

God has seen fit to place Seongmin with our congregation and who hasn't been moved by her beautiful singing voice, playing the piano, reading Scripture and doing the children's moments. Behind the scenes she has been working hard to help TUMC develop a caring ministry program. As part of her Garrett Seminary internship, one of the goals included the study of some caring ministry resources and assisting our church with the creation and implementation of a caring ministry program.

Helping Seongmin lay the foundation for Trinity's caring ministry program has been the site committee. Pastor Rom is her site supervisor and the other members of the committee are Jane Pegram, Kathy Drexler, Joan Brasch and Bill Seefeld. The forging of this program has the expertise of Pastor Rom and Jane, both of whom have training in Stephen Ministry. Pastor Rom in a leader position and Jane as a minister. With their prior training the site committee is developing a training manual for the TUMC caring ministry program with Kathy Drexler as chairman for the project.

We are greatly encouraged by those who have expressed interest in learning more about becoming part of our team. We pray that you will see the worthiness of this program and will be moved to want to belong. Keep reading the monthly newsletters and weekly bulletins for updates. Sign up to join the caring ministry team will begin in the month of May. We plan to train and prepare our members over the summer. Our goal is to launch the TUMC caring ministry program early in the fall of 2017. Following the training program, the team members will pledge to visit one of our "shut in's", at least once per month.

- 1. Are you looking for a way to get more involved at Trinity United Methodist Church?
- 2. Do you possess good listening skills?
- 3. Are you willing to share one hour a month of your time with a church member who would enjoy some company?

If you have been moved by the goal of this program or nudged by the Lord to learn more about this program, please contact Kathy Drexler (920-583-3551) or one of the other committee members.

GWEN'S PEN...

I cherish two Jane's who have become an essential part of my life in the last decade and I can only imagine where, what, or who I'd be today without either of them.

One keeps me on track physically, tending to the snow removal, the mowing, the weed war, the replacement of plantings, my mail delivery, runs errands, lends her muscles to chores too tough for me, and is my first thought when I need almost anything done.

The other feeds me spiritually, initiating discussion on deeper matters. She brings me helpful books, phones me just to see how I am, shares parts of her life, listens to my concerns and reassures me when questions confound me and prays with me.

Of course they are much more than ready answers to my constant requests. They give me themselves. Everything they do for me and with me is done with joy and without even a hint of hesitation. They give evidence of God's presence in their lives and therefore in mine.

There are many other "Janes" and "Johns" among you, for whom I am constantly grateful and on whom I often depend for help. I hope each of you has at least one Jane in your life and that each of us is a Jane to someone else.

What to watch for in “The Shack” United Methodist Pastors’ Advice

“The Shack” opens in U.S. movie theaters this weekend, and even though the film is an adaptation of the controversial, best-selling 2007 novel written by Canadian author William P. Young, viewers can find comfort in the story, say United Methodist clergy. “‘The Shack’ can be a powerful metaphor for understanding God’s desire to offer us healing in times of trial, doubt, and unspeakable suffering,” says the Rev. Matt Rawle, lead pastor at Asbury United Methodist Church in Bossier City, Louisiana.

In the film, Mack (portrayed by Sam Worthington) tries to recover from a deep grief resulting from a terrible tragedy in his family. This grief severely threatens Mack’s faith, which is already on shaky ground after years of challenging God. Rawle is a firm believer that works such as The Shack, which integrate pop culture with Christian faith, can make Jesus more accessible and encourage discussions. “Although the film presents an unorthodox view of the Trinity, it would be shortsighted to see the story as heretical or blasphemous. In fact, using this cultural offering as a conversation starter may help those who are suffering find a language to share their grief and begin the healing process,” says Rawle.

Rawle is referring to the controversy surrounding the author’s (and film’s) non-biblical depiction of the Trinity: Papa, portrayed by African-American (and Academy Award-winning) actress Octavia Spencer; Jesus, portrayed by Avraham Aviv Alush, an Israeli actor of Tunisian heritage; and Sarayu, the physical manifestation of the Holy Spirit, portrayed by Japanese actress Sumire Matsubara. “It’s important to note that The Shack is not meant as a theological treatise, but rather a record of a journey to find healing from the worst tragedy that a parent can experience,” says the Rev. Christy Thomas, a retired elder in The United Methodist Church. “It’s best to view the movie through these eyes rather than through the eyes of ‘I can tell you what God is actually about.’ (The author) can’t do that and neither can anyone else.” One should watch the film “with an understanding that all language about and knowledge of God is necessarily limited and metaphorical. We humans don’t have the ability to fully take in the Presence of God,” says Thomas. “We can only describe it in words of our experiences. Those experiences are inevitably limited and interpretive.”

“The way Young depicts the Trinity may look problematic, especially the use of a black female as “Papa,” i.e., God the Father, but the Scriptures make it clear that the nature of God transcends gender classifications. For United Methodists, long comfortable with women in leadership, the more inclusive depiction of the Trinity really should not be an issue,” she says. In hopes of fostering conversations, a number of United Methodist churches, such as Faith United Methodist Church in North Canton, Ohio, are inviting members to group screenings of the film. Led by Pastor Steve Stultz Costello, the church is renting an entire theater for one showing and handing out free tickets to church members and the community.

“Faith UMC believes God is at work in everyone’s life guiding us on a journey into faith,” says Rev. Costello. “We believe that the journey is assisted by questions – all kinds of questions. The Shack raises timeless questions about God and humanity through a story of tragic loss, grief, pain and healing.” By watching the film together, says Costello, “we believe God will be present and with God comes the hope of new beginnings, movement on our faith journey, even new life.” This sentiment is also present in the lyrics of the title song “Keep Your Eyes on Me,” sung by Tim McGraw, who also stars in the feature, and his wife Faith Hill. The song was written by McGraw, Hill, Shane McAnally, and Lori McKenna, the songwriter who wrote the Grammy-winning “Humble and Kind,” also sung by McGraw. McGraw told CMT.com that the song captures “the spirit and soul of what the film was saying. There’s a part where that line is spoken,” he explains, “and it was so powerful, and we took that and ran with it.”

The final refrain is inspiring throughout the entire church year, but especially here at the beginning of Lent:

Keep your eyes on me...When you’re lost in the dark...Keep your eyes on me...When the light in your heart is Too burned out to see...Keep your eyes on me...Keep your eyes on me.

Dr. Christy Thomas writes the weekly religion column for the Denton Record-Chronicle and blogs regularly here. The Rev. Matt Rawle is the author of the Pop in Culture Bible study series published by Abingdon Press, which currently includes The Redemption of Scrooge, The Faith of a Mockingbird, The Salvation of Doctor Who, and Hollywood Jesus with What Makes a Hero? slated to release in Fall 2017.
